Topic	History Living memory. A living memory is a memory from someone who was alive when the event happened. As time passes less people will have been alive when the event happened. On Poppy day some badges often say never forget or lest we forget. Discuss with your family what you think this means and why shouldn't we forget. Write down your ideas or record them on a phone or tablet. You may also want to write a remembrance poem (examples can be found on line) Art is another way to show remembrance. If you wish this can give you a way to talk to younger children about statues which have been in the news lately and why different groups feel strongly about them.	Science Have a look at how plants take water up their stems. http://www.teaching-tiny-tots.com/toddler-science-celery-experiment.html There are variations on this experiment with flowers http://www.sciencefun.org/kidszone/experiments/dyed-flowers/ With adult help stems can be split and the ends put into different dye. Record what you see.	RE Christianity being thankful. Listen to the story about Jesus and the 10 lepers- children may be interested in what a leper is. What do you think Jesus felt about the nine lepers who didn't return and the one that did?	Nature's Music Have a go at the nature's music activity, however if you have any other ideas for making an instrument have a go. If you have a sibling or willing adult perhaps they can make an instrument so you can form a band. Have a go at recording your music and send it to seesaw
